Jewish Sports Review Names Jordan Kardos To Its 2002 Men's Basketball All-American First Team

Senior bestowed honor after averaging 12.3 ppg to help guide the Flames to the NCAA Tournament.

May 29, 2002

Chicago, Ill. - The Jewish Sports Review announced this afternoon that it has named UIC senior Jordan Kardos to its 2002 Men's Division I All-American Basketball First Team.

Kardos helped lead the Flames to the Horizon League Tournament title and the program's second-ever NCAA Tournament appearance last season, averaging 12.3 ppg while shooting 46% from three-point range, which ranked in the top five in the nation.

The Northbrook, Ill., native graduated from UIC ranked 12th on the school's all-time scoring list, tallying 1,114 points during his career.

Joining Kardos on the first team, is forward David Bluthenthal of USC, forward Amit Tamir of Cal, forward Paul Vitelli of Yale, center Haim Shimonovich of Hawaii, and guard Andrew Gellert of Harvard.

The Jewish Sports Review is a source for complete and up-to-date information about Jewish Athletes currently on the field, court and gridiron, as well as in-depth news of up-and-coming, young Jewish talent.
