13 Student-Athletes Named To The 2002 Spring Academic All-Horizon League Team

With 13 honorees, Flames tie for league's top-spot

June 12, 2002

Chicago, Ill. - Following a spring athletic season full of success, the Horizon League announced today just how successful of an academic season it was for the Flames, as 13 UIC student-athletes were named to the 2002 Spring Academic All-Horizon League Team.

The baker's dozen who made the team for the Flames tied Loyola's 13 for the most representatives in the league from one institution, as seven UIC student-athletes are making return trips to the squad.

Baseball's John Rosner and women's tennis player Kim Harris were selected for the third-time in as many seasons, while Baseball's Mike Bruszer, women's tennis player Nicole Derouin, men's tennis' Nick Bodmer, men's track and field athlete Jon White and women's track and field athlete Debbie Lang were all second-time honorees.

First-time honorees included baseball's Curtis Granderson, softball's Amber Stachura, women's tennis' Karen Liwanpo and Zorica Malesevic and men's tennis' Amol Desai and Neil Ahluwalia.

The Spring Academic All-Horizon League Teams are selected by the Horizon League Sports Information Directors and Faculty Athletic Representatives. Nominees must meet the following criteria: 1) a cumulative grade point average (G.P.A.) of 3.25 or better on a 4.00 scale; 2) have completed at least three semesters at the same institution; and 3) be a starter or significant contributor in a league-sponsored sport. The team is comprised of the same number of First Team All-
