Chicago, Ill.- This past Saturday the UIC Athletic Department hosted the first-ever Season Ticket Holder Pancake Breakfast & Scrimmage at the Flames Athletic Center, providing UIC men's basketball season ticket holders and their guests a fully-catered breakfast and a special look at the 2007-08 UIC men's basketball team.

Nearly two hundred Flames backers came out to the Pancake Breakfast, which featured a variety of food and beverage offerings in a cozy setup on the west basketball court of the FAC.

Head Coach Jimmy Collins and his staff and players then came down to engage in a practice and scrimmage session on the FAC's east basketball court in front of the guests.

The strong play of Scott VanderMeer, Karl White Jr., and Josh Mayo and the unveiling of highly-touted newcomers Robert Kreps and Tori Boyd highlighted the 40 minutes of game action during the scrimmage.

In between periods the entire UIC men's basketball team greeted and chatted with the guests.

"I am excited that so many season ticket holders were able to make it to the breakfast," said UIC Ticket Manager Scott Garrett. "Their continued support is so important to UIC Athletics and the men's basketball program.

"This event was not just a chance to give them a glimpse of the team in action, but it was our way of saying 'thank you' to a very loyal group of Flames fans."

"The pancake breakfast was a wonderful event for everyone involved," said Collins. "Our players and staff were really fired up about giving our loyal fans a good show and giving them a glimpse of good things to come this season."

Fans can purchase a variety of ticket plans by calling the UIC Athletic Ticket Office at (312) 413-UIC1.
